CONTINUATION OF THE

LATEST FOREIGN NEWS

Received by the ship Packet, Capt. Trott, arrived at Boston in 36 days from Liverpool.

Sir S. Smith has obtained the releaſe of 60 French priſoners, confined in cloſe priſon at Conſtantinople. He ſtated they were of right priſoners to the Engliſh, whoſe treatment of priſoners was different from the Turkiſh.

The French are exerting themſelves to the utmoſt to equip a fleet at Breſt. There has been a general preſs of ſailors in every ſeaport in France.

A Dutch fleet is ready for ſea at the Texel.

A Barbary fleet of 8 ſail of the line, appeared of Cadiz, February 3. were joined by Britiſh ſhips, and ſhaped their courſe to Minorca.

The French found only one frigate at Naples, and a few tranſports. The populace were diſarmed, and a proclamation was iſſued threatening the burning of every houſe from which a gun ſhould be fired.

Admiral Nelſon, is furniſhed with Turkiſh and Ruſſian troops, and is to make a deſcent on Calabria.

Inſurance on veſſels to America has fallen.

The Spaniards are very induſtrious at Cadiz, in equipping a fleet. One rumour is, that it is deſtined to reduce to order the blacks of St. Domingo.

UNION OF ENGLAND AND IRELAND.

On the 19th of March reſolutions in favor of the union of Ireland with England, were read in the Britiſh houſe of lords, and agreed to—and April 4, was aſſigned for taking into conſideration an addreſs to his majeſty in favor of that meaſure.

NEUTRAL COMMERCE.—FEBRUARY 4.

The French council of elders diſcuſſed certain reſolutions relative to fixing ſigns and characters by which neutral veſſels may be known. Arnoult and Denzele oppoſed them. Their ſpeeches were ordered to be printed; and no deciſion was made on the propoſitions.

FRONTIERS OF ITALY, FEB. 26.

The French have begun their hoſtile movements againſt the Auſtrians, and only wait for orders from Paris to commence operations with vigor.

Mantua is proviſioned for three years, and the garriſon reinforced to 10.000 men. The Auſtrians are likewiſe making great preparations for war—troops and ammunition are daily arriving—the batteries of Trieſte are furniſhed with additional artillery, and ſeveral intrenchments thrown up on the frontiers.

UPPER RHINE, MARCH 5.

On the ſecond inſtant, general Bernadotte, commander of the French army of obſervation, ſent the following ſummons to the Rhingrave Salm, commander of the fortreſs of Philipſburg.

GENERAL,

"The Auſtrian government, contrary to the treaty of Campo Formio, has taken poſſeſſion of the fortreſs of Ulm, which aggreſſion renders it neceſſary for us to have a garriſon in the fortreſs which you command. It will be in vain, general, that you will attempt to make oppoſition, for your garriſon is not ſtrong enough to ſuſtain an aſſault, and the peace which is on the point of being ſigned between the German empire and the French republic, renders it your duty to prevent the effuſion of blood, by delivering up a depot which you cannot protect from the attacks of the Auſtrian army. I will not ſuppoſe general that you will give it up voluntarily to that army, but were your inclination ſuch, it is at preſent too diſtant to afford you the ſmalleſt ſupport. The army of general Jourdan is at this moment marching through the Schwartzwald (Black Foreſt) to ſeek the Auſtrian army in the interior of Bavaria.

"I muſt tell you ſtill more, General, I know that your garriſon is diſcontented; that the officers of it are too wiſe and enlightened to laviſh their blood to gratify the ſelfiſhneſs and caprice of a few arrogant men; and the ſoldiers only wait the ſignal of attack, to declare their diſſatisfaction. When the inhabitants ſhall ſee that their houſes are about ſoon to become the prey of the flames, they will preſently determine which ſide to take. The artillery of Landau, which is advancing, will quickly furniſh them with w— they have long wiſhed for—a ſufficient motive to compel their commandant to deliver up the keys.

"The terrible example which general Mack has given to all thoſe who lead ſoldiers to battle againſt their will, muſt have furniſhed you with matter for alarming reflection. But without all theſe advantages, the army under my command has ſufficient means to compel the fortreſs to ſurrender. I hope I ſhall not be compelled by your obſtinacy to ſhed human blood, and make the inhabitants of Philipſburg the innocent victims of the deſtructive conteſt.

"I cannot repeat ſufficiently often, general, that I will not place a garriſon in your fortreſs as an enemy.—Far from it; I mean only to hold the place for the German empire, and I call the whole world to witneſs, that I declare that I will reſtore Philipſburgh to the empire, as ſoon as the French government ſhall be certified that the empire can defend it againſt the ambition of the houſe of Auſtria. On you alone, the ſafety of the inhabitants of Philipſburg; and you will render yourſelf accountable for the manner in which you ſhall act, not only to your cotemporaries but to poſterity.

"Should you oblige me to make the aſſault, I doubtleſs cannot but ſucceed, as the number of troops I have with me, and the other means I poſſeſs, render it impoſſible I ſhould fail. But the puniſhment will be terrible, of thoſe who have been the cauſe of reſiſtance to the French republic; nor will I reſtrain the rage of the ſoldiery, which will be furious againſt you.

I have the honor, &c.

(Signed) BERNADOTTE.

ANSWER

Of the commandant of Philipſburg, to general Bernadotte, dated Auttenheim, near Philipſburg, March 2, 1799.

"GENERAL,

"YOUR letter of the 12th of Ventoſe (March 2) which was brought me by adjutant general Gondin, is of ſuch a nature as I could not have expected to receive at this moment, when peace is on the point of being ſigned between the German empire and the French republic. You yourſelf muſt perceive, general, that I ſhall be culpable were I to deliver up a fortreſs, the command of which has been entruſted to me by the general in chief of the army of the empire. His reſidence is not far diſtant, and ſtill nearer is the place of meeting of the deputies to the congreſs for the peace of the empire.

"The orders and inſtructions which I may receive from theſe two quarters, will regulate my conduct. While in expectation of theſe orders, which, when I receive them, I ſhall immediately communicate to you, I can only act as every man of honor muſt act in my place.

"The ſituation of the fortreſs under my command is not ſo much as you appear to believe; nor do I know of any diſcontent among the garriſon. I muſt therefore declare to you that I will not receive a French garriſon into the place, nor commence hoſtilities, though I will reſiſt any attack. The aſſailants will be anſwerable to our cotemporaries and poſterity for all the calamities which may follow in conſequence of their attack.

"The RHINGRAVE SALM,
Lieutenant-general."

SUABIA, (GERMANY,) MARCH 8.

When the Auſtrian army and the army of the empire paſſed the Lech, on the 4th of March, very remarkable general orders were iſſued by the archduke Charles, in which he takes a ſuccinct view of the various occurrences which have led to the preſent poſture of affairs; ſtating that the French have taken the moſt improper advantages of the retreat of the Auſtrian troops, violently obtained poſſeſſion of Erenbreiſtein, oppreſſed the right bank of the Rhine; and carried their demands at Raſtadt to a height that muſt diſgrace the German name, and not deigned to return an anſwer to any remonſtrances. It is added, that they are now prepared to over-run Germany with a numerous army, extend the republic of Switzerland to the Danube and the Lech, and thus continually add encroachment to encroachment.

It appears that the main body of the French army began to croſs the Rhine in the afternoon of the 1ſt inſtant, & the advanced guard under the command of generals Lefebvre, Vandame and Clain, having paſt early in the morning.

The Rhine was alſo paſt on the ſame day at Huninguen, by the right wing of the French army, and at Germerſheim by the left wing. A corps from the left wing was deſtined to inveſt Philipſburg, which it was thought would ſoon ſurrender.

The letters from Straſburg ſtate, that the French army is not to halt for five days, and it ſeems probable that general Jourdan is determined to advance by forced marches to Ulm, where the main body of the Auſtrian army, under the command of the archduke Charles, is ſtationed.

On the ſecond inſtant the executive directory paſſed an arrete, appointing citizen Joundan commander in chief of the armies of the Danube, of Helvetia, and of the army of obſervation; citizen Bernadotte commander of the army of obſervation, under the orders of citizen Jourdan; and citizen Meſſena commander of the French army in Helvetia, under the direction of the commander in chief of the ſame army.

The main body of the army under Jourdan is ſaid to have received large reinforcements; under theſe circumſtances we may every day expect intelligence of an action between the French army and that of the archduke.

STRASBURG, MARCH 3.

The Helvetic directory has been inveſted with greater powers by the two councils, in order to be able to act with more energy in caſe of war.

MARCH 6.

The diſcuſſion of the Diet of Ratiſbon is impatiently expected, but that town is too near Auſtria, and too much ſurrounded with the military to expect an iſſue unfavorable to the court of Vienna. The caſe is very different at Raſtadt, where the conduct of Auſtria is conſidered as inimical to the empire. It is believed that the greater part of the ſecular princes will ſeparate themſelves from that ambitious power, ſhould it ſucceed in plunging Germany into a new war.

RASTADT, MARCH 1.

Laſt night the French, to the number of 25.000 men, paſſed the Rhine, and publiſhed two proclamations. A note was likewiſe given in to the deputation of the empire by the French miniſters; in which they declare that if the empire will oppoſe the march of the Ruſſian troops, the negociations for peace ſhall proceed as before, otherwiſe the French envoys have orders to leave Raſtadt.

At nine o'clock the French miniſters delivered the following note and proclamations to the deputation of the empire—They were brought by the adjutant general who arrived yeſterday evening at Raſtadt. A note to the ſame purpoſe was likewiſe remitted to his excellency the count Lehrbach. Couriers and eſtafettes have been ſent off on all ſides.

Note of the French legation to the deputation of the Empire.

"The underſigned miniſters plenipotentiary of the French republic, for the negociation with the Germanic empire, have received orders from the executive directory to tranſmit to the deputation of the empire the proclamation ſubjoined.—They acquit themſelves of this commiſſion, by annexing to the preſent note a copy, certified by them, of this proclamation; as alſo one of the addreſs of general Jourdan to the army he commands.

"The underſigned are charged, at the ſame time to declare, that the march of the army is only to be conſidered as a meaſure of precaution impoſed by circumſtances:—that the deſire of peace on the part of the French government is ſtill ardent and ſincere—and that it will proceed to conclude it with the empire, provided the empire ſhall declare againſt the march of the Ruſſians.

"DERAY,
"ROBERJOT."

PROCLAMATION BY THE DIRECTORY.

"The troops of his majeſty the emperor, king of Bohemia and Hungary, in contempt of a convention concluded at Raſtadt (16th December, 1797) have paſſed the Inn, and advanced beyond the boundaries of the hereditary countries.

"This movement is connected with the march of the Ruſſian troops now in the ſtates of the emperor, who openly declare that they come to attack and combat the French republic.

"Ever faithful to the obligation it has impoſed on itſelf, ever animated with the deſire of maintaining a ſtate of peace, and ever diſpoſed to aſcribe to his majeſty the emperor the ſame ſentiments, the French government has demanded a ſatisfactory declaration relative to this march of the Ruſſian troops, and the paſſage which has been granted them.

"The emperor has been ſilent. The executive directory, therefore, ſees itſelf compelled by the neceſſity of ſelf defence, and the obligation which every ſtate is under to provide for its ſecurity, to order the French armies to take ſuch poſitions as circumſtances require. But it declares, at the ſame time, that its deſire for peace is invariable; and that the moment his majeſty the emperor ſhall make known, by an amicable declaration, that the Ruſſians have evacuated his ſtates; and that his troops have reſumed the poſitions determined on in the convention concluded at Raſtadt, the French armies ſhall return to the poſitions they have hitherto occupied.

"Approved by the executive directory (Feb. 20.)

MARCH 7.

On the 3d every thing was ſtill in a quiet ſtate at the Auſtrian head quarters at Friedberg, but on the 4th a conſiderable train of artillery paſſed by Augſburgh, on its way to Ulm.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT.

The contents of the convention of the 1ſt of December, 1797, and the ſecret articles of the treaty of Campo Formio, have now been made public.

The convention is to the following purport:—

"For the execution of the treaty of Campo Formio, and the annexed convention, the plenipotentiaries of his majeſty the emperor, king of Bohemia and Hungary, and the plenipotentiaries of the French republic, with the French general appointed to carry the proviſions of the ſame into execution, have agreed to, and reciprocally guaranteed the following articles:

1. The troops of the emperor, and king of Bohemia and Hungary, and the troops of the empire in his pay, ſhall evacuate the territory of the empire by the 25th of December, and withdraw into the hereditary ſtates of his majeſty and beyond the river Inn.

2. The contingent of the empire ſhall retire over the river Lech, and not be employed in the fortreſſes of the empire.

3. The troops of the garriſon of Mentz ſhall not amount, on the 25th of December, to more than 15,000 men.

4. On the ſame day the French army ſhall evacuate the Venetian territory, of which the emperor ſhall take poſſeſſion.

5. Fifteen thouſand French troops ſhall remain in the ſaid Venitian territory, as well to garriſon the different fortreſſes to maintain order.

6. On the 20th of December the troops of the emperor ſhall evacuate Manheim, Philipſburg, Ehrenbreiſtein, Ulm, Ingolſtadt, and Wurtemburg, and reſtore them to the ſovereign to whom they appertain. The artillery, ammunition and proviſions belonging to the emperor in theſe places, ſhall at the ſame time be removed.

7. The troops of the emperor, and the artillery, ammunition, and proviſions appertaining to his imperial majeſty, ſhall be removed to Mentz in ſuch a manner that this operation ſhall be terminated be the 30th of December.

8. On the 20th December the French troops ſhall blockade Mentz, but leave the communications open to the Auſtrian troops.

9. Before the 8th of December the plenipotentiaries of the emperor ſhall declare to the empire that it is the intention of their ſovereign to evacuate the territory and the fortreſſes of the empire.

10. The plenipotentiaries of the emperor ſhall take care to procure the ſurrender of Mentz to the French troops on the part of the elector of Mentz and the empire during the negociations, ſo that the French troops may be in the city on the 30th of December; and ſhould the elector of Mentz or the empire refuſe their conſent, the French republic ſhall compel them to it by force.

11. The French Generals in the vicinity of Ehrenbreitſtein, ſhall afford to the Auſtrian troops, which evacuate that place every aſſiſtance on their march; and furniſh the Auſtrian generals with horſes, carriages, and every thing neceſſary for the conveyance of artillery, ammunition or proviſions.

12. The French and Ciſalpine troops ſhall by the 30th of Decemb., evacuate Palma-

A letter from Amboyna of the 18th of January laſt ſays, "Our officers have diſcovered ſome very curious inſcriptions on the rocks at this iſland, which muſt of courſe be very ancient, for they are not even underſtood by any of the preſent inhabitants. There is a moſt remarkable tree in the iſland of Ceylon, called Tallipot, one of whoſe leaves will cover ten men, and ſhelter them entirely from the rain. They are very light, and travellers carry them in common from place to place and uſe them inſtead of tents. Two ſhips are expected from Madraſs to clear our warehouſes of the ſpices, of which we have as much will ſerve all Europe for years."

NORFOLK, MAY 9.

Extract of a letter from St. Pierre's, Martinique, to a gentleman in this town, dated 29th March.

"Admiral Harvey in the Prince of Wales 98 guns, and Vengeance of 74 guns, beſides frigates, in conſequence of advice from St. Vincent (per a ſchooner arrived 6 days ſince from Gibraltar) embarked upwards of 400 ſoldiers at Fort-royal, and proceeded immediately to the ſouthward; they are now at Courland Bay, Tobago. It is ſaid that a Spaniſh fleet of merchantmen, with a convoy, are expected on the Main, and that the Admiral is watching them, as their route is between Tobago and Trinidad. The American cruizers are very active, and have retaken ſeveral veſſels of their country."

The ſchooner Elizabeth, capt. Robinſon, arrived yeſterday from Martinique; ſhe ſailed in company with a fleet of 32 ſail, under convoy of the United States and Conſtitution frigates, with the Merrimac brig. The cruiſe of the United States and Conſtitution is out; the former has gone to Philadelphia, and the latter to Boſton.

By a ſchooner which arrived here yeſterday, from Alexandria, we learn, that the tornado on Saturday the 27th ult. had none conſiderable damage in the neighbourhood of Port Tobacco.—At King George court-houſe ſeveral carts were carried by the wind a diſtance of 150 yards and daſhed in pieces; ſeveral people, as well as horſes and cattle, have been killed, and many houſes have been blown down, and trees torn up by the roots.

On Tueſday arrived the ſchooner Nymph, capt. Smith. She was taken by the Engliſh frigate Trent, in lat. 23, on her paſſage from Port de Paix, to St. Tomas's, with a cargo of coffee. They took out 3 of the hands, and put a prize maſter and three men on bord and ordered her to Bermuda;—ſhe ſtruck on the rocks going in and the prize maſter and Engliſh ſeamen went on ſhore to obtain aſſiſtance to get her off—during this time a freſh breeze ſpringing up from the ſhore, and the ſchooner backed into deep water when captain Smith made ſail, and arrived here in a leaky condition, having only 4 hands on board, which were the captain, mate cook and cabin boy.

Alexandria, May 14.

The ſhip Felicity, capt. John Burrowdale, of this port, ſailed from Liverpool on the 6th of March. She has 18 Roles d'Equipage, each of them capable of diſcharging a nine pound ball; and may therefore, unleſs prevented by adverſe gales, be daily expected.

The brig George, Capt. Charles Taylor, has arrived in the river from the Weſt Indies.

The armed ſchooners the Neptune, and Welcome Return, the former under the command of Capt. Abel Willis, the latter under that of Capt. Guthrie, have arrived ſafe at St. Thomas's, after experiencing very diſagreeable weather.

MARRIED—On Thurſday the 2d inſt. at the ſeat of Richard Bland Lee, in this County, by the Rev. Mr. Davis, Mr. WILLIAM HODGSON, merchant, to Miſs PORTIA LEE, eldeſt daughter of the late W'm Lee, Eſq. of Green Spring, James River.

Ten Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY from the subscribers, yesterday morning, a Negro Man, named GEORGE. He is a stout, well made Negro, and very black, about 6 feet 7½ inches high, flat face, sullen look; his eyes sunk in his head, small ears; he has two round spots near the size of a small four pence half penny on the right arm, near the elbow, which he says was occasioned by the bite of a dog, several white spots on the front part of the right arm, near the bend of the elbow, occasioned by a burn, a mark on the left arm, where he was inoculated for the smallpox, near to which there is the mark of a cut, about 1½ inch long, a mark of a cut across the side of the right big toe, a pretty large mark on the right side of his belly, pretty low down, occasioned, as he says, by a scald.—He formerly belonged to Mr. Robert Allison; and has a brother living with Mr. J. Swift, and probably may conceal himself through the day, and get supplied with provisions at night from their kitchen; otherwise we expect he would endeavour to get off to Fauquier county, where he was apprehended when he ran away about a year ago. He had on, when he went off, an osnaburg shirt, over jacket and trousers of white kersey, pretty much worn, and an old wool hat, pieced on one side. He also took with him a new wool hat and a blanket. Whoever apprehends the said Negro and delivers him to us, in Alexandria, shall have the above reward, if taken above 30 miles; Five Dollars, if taken above 15 miles; and Three Dollars, if taken a less distance from Alexandria.
